Help your clients with going crossborder within a couple of minutes!

Help your clients with going crossborder within a couple of minutes using Clonable's website translation tools. Online presence is essential in today's day and age, but maintaining your website in multiple languages can be challenging. Clonable mitigates this problem in three easy steps:

1. Clonable copies your client's current website, and puts it on another subfolder (example.com/en), subdomain (en.example.com) or new domain (example.en).
2. This new version of your website is automatically translated to whichever language your client chooses.
3. Whenever your client updates their original website, we'll make sure that all other translations stay up-to-date.

For e-commerce, there's even more! In CMS systems like Magento and Shopware, you can customise which products are available per country, as well as change prices for different countries. That gives clients flexibility if some products in the domestic market are unfit for foreign ones.

When is Clonable a good fit for your clients?

Clonable sees itself more as a maintenance tool than purely translation. What we offer, is peace-of-mind for all foreign websites. The only thing that clients need to worry about is their own website, in the language they're familiar with.

When isn't Clonable a good fit for your clients?

- When your client wishes to spend their own time manually translating and maintaining every single language they offer.
- When spending tenfold for external translators is preferred.
- When running the risk of out-of-date websites sounds good.

Sincerely though, do keep in mind that Clonable offers machine-translated content. For legally binding documents, we do recommend getting in touch with certified translators for proofreading Clonable's results.
